

Latest Updates on COVID-19 Travel Restrictions to Peru

Is it safe to travel to Peru right now? Peru was granted status as a “safe destination” by the World Travel & Tourism Council in late 2020. Peru received the virtual seal of Safe Travels, indicating that it fulfills the international hygiene and biosecurity standards to deal with COVID-19.

Peru Flight Restrictions

Incoming international flights are permitted. Only non-resident passengers traveling from or who have passed through South Africa may not enter Peru. Peruvians and foreign residents arriving from South Africa, or who have transited these countries, must show proof of vaccination AND provide a negative molecular test with the results provided no more than 48h prior to departure. The National Health Authority may perform PCR tests on passengers arriving from countries where there is community transmission of variants of concern. They may further implement other sanitary measures in the case of positive results.

It is required to wear two masks on every flight (into and within the country) and in the airports of Peru. It is also required to maintain a minimum distance of 1m inside the airport.

Entry Requirements for Peru

All Travellers

A completed declaration of health must be filled out before taking the flight. We recommend taking the printed out version with you during your flight.

Vaccinated Travelers

All incoming passengers 12 years or older must show valid proof of vaccination (minimum 2 doses). For Peruvian residents 18 and over, fully vaccinated means that you have received 3 doses of vaccine. The third dose must have been received at least 14 days prior to entry into Peru.

Unvaccinated Travelers

A negative COVID-19 PCR test for every traveler over the age of 12. Results must be received no more than 48h prior to the departure of your flight to Peru.

There are currently no quarantine regulations for incoming travelers.

Health & Safety Restrictions Throughout Peru

Social distancing (1.5m), masks, regular hand-washing and use of hand sanitizer are MANDATORY everywhere throughout the country, including outside, except in a couple of districts. The use of double masks (surgical mask with a cloth mask overtop) OR a single KN95 mask is required to circulate on public roads and in enclosed spaces. This includes malls, grocery stores, banks, etc. The use of double masks and a face shield is recommended.

It is mandatory for anyone over 18 to show proof of vaccination (vaccination certificate) to enter into any enclosed public space.

Body temperature detection is a mandatory travel-related measure that must be respected by every traveler wishing to enter tourist sites, restaurants, vehicles, airplanes, trains and more. Your temperature will be automatically reported if it exceeds 37.5° C. Please note that entry to a specific site or location may be refused if your body temperature is above 37.5° C.
